Clint Scott's Biography:

Originally from Hazel Park, Michigan, artist Clint Scott graduated from the Cleveland Institute of Art in 1971 with a BFA degree in Graphic Design & Illustration. Right out of College, ABC Network Television hired Clint as an Associate Art Director to do movie and news art. After a few years he landed his dream job as an illustrator for Pitt Studios, one of the nation's largest art studios.

As a young artist, Clint felt blessed to be tutored by some of the finest illustrators in the country. He got to work with artists who specialized in hand lettering, acrylic painting, watercolor, paper sculpture & drawing. As Clint explains, "the 'old timers' were very generous with sharing their secrets. I believe that this is where I first understood the gift of passing down the mystery of art."

Clint was honored with numerous Communicating Arts and American Institute of Graphic Arts awards while at Pitt Studios. He was also selected to exhibit in the Bicentennial Smithsonian Show for stamp design. In 1989 one of his pieces won as one of the top ten posters in America as judged by Target Marketing Magazine. After 14 years at the studio, Clint was promoted to Creative Director.

After deciding that the northern winters were too long, Clint moved to Atlanta where and his wife Lynda worked for the next ten years. During that time, he taught at the Atlanta College of Art & Clayton State University. In 2005 Clint & Lynda moved to McCormick, SC. The serene beauty, hometown atmosphere and supportive arts community were irresistible. Over the last 16 years Mr. Scott has been teaching at Piedmont Technical College and the McCormick Arts Council. "It has been very rewarding to see people surprised by what they didn't know they could achieve."
